Dear Mr Butler

Thank you for your request to manufacture Army unit colour patches and to on-sell items featuring Australian Army emblems.

The request is approved. You are authorised to manufacture Army unit patches on request from units, and in accordance with the Unit Colour Patch Register (<http://www.army.gov.au/Our-work/Equipment-and-clothing/Army-Dress-Manual/Unit-Colour-Patch-Register>) and the specifications provided to you by the unit. You may display photographs of these items on your social media sites.

I also authorise you to collect and on-sell surplus items that display an Australian Army emblem that have been purchased from an authorised supplier, and to display and sell the items through the website www.colourpatch.com.au.

In accordance with Section 83 of the Defence Act 1903, the Australian Army owns the copyright of all Australian Army emblems. The emblems must not to be renamed, cropped, manipulated or edited in any way, used in part or overlaid with another image.

Colour Patch is not authorised to assign or attempt to assign any right to a third party on the basis of this approval.

Thank you for taking the time to contact us with your request.

Yours sincerely,

WB Stothart, AM
